NutraLife AI

A Wealth of Information

Urine contains a great deal of information — biodata that says a lot about your wellness.

In-home urine testing is a convenient, effective way to capture this information.

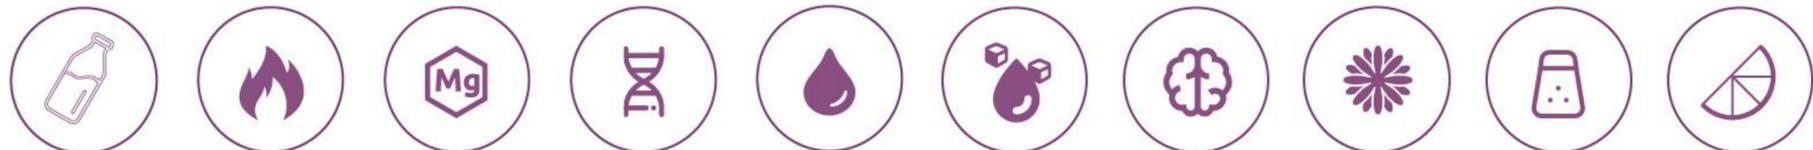

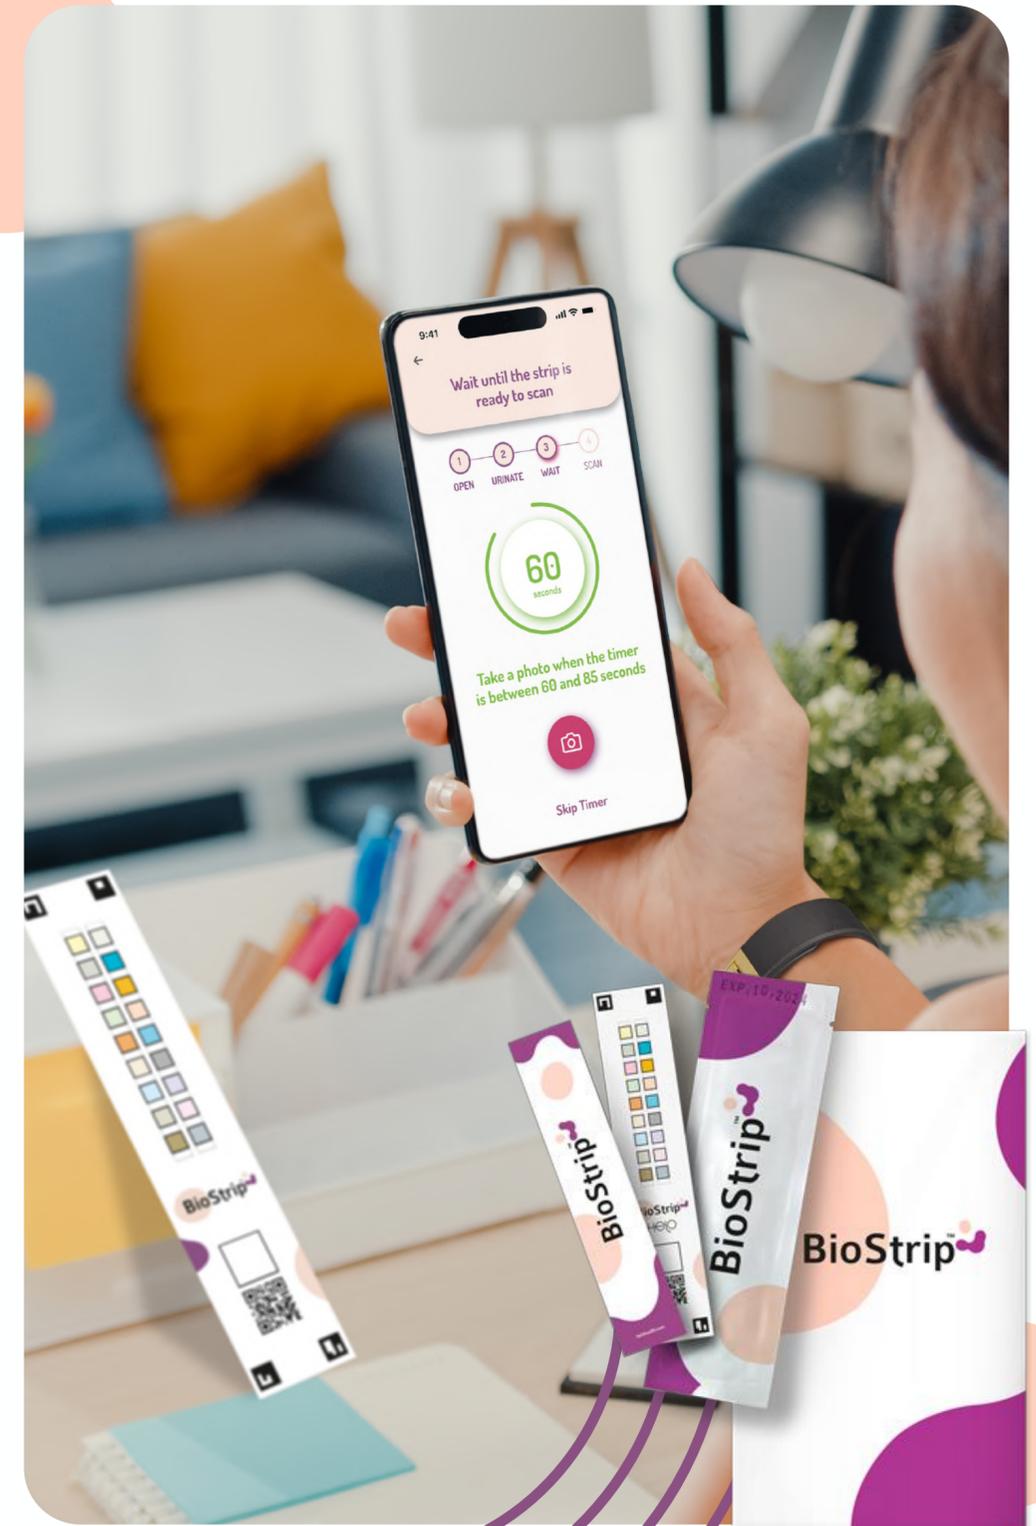

Analysis of your test can tell you where you're at, and show you how to get where you want to be. This insight helps take the guesswork out of supplements, exercise, diet, and more.

BioStrip™

- BioStrip from NutraLife AI™ are once-weekly, easy-to-use urine test strips which measure biomarkers.
- Each BioStrip has a series of colored boxes, and each box reacts in predictable ways to chemical markers in your urine.
- These reactions can be detected, analyzed, and reported in areas such as protein, hydration, pH, ketones, magnesium, and more.
- Urinate mid-stream on all colored squares for 2-5 seconds, then wait 90 seconds before submitting for analysis.
- Use a BioStrip weekly to closely monitor your biodata, and to see progress and understand what's working.

The NutraLife AI App

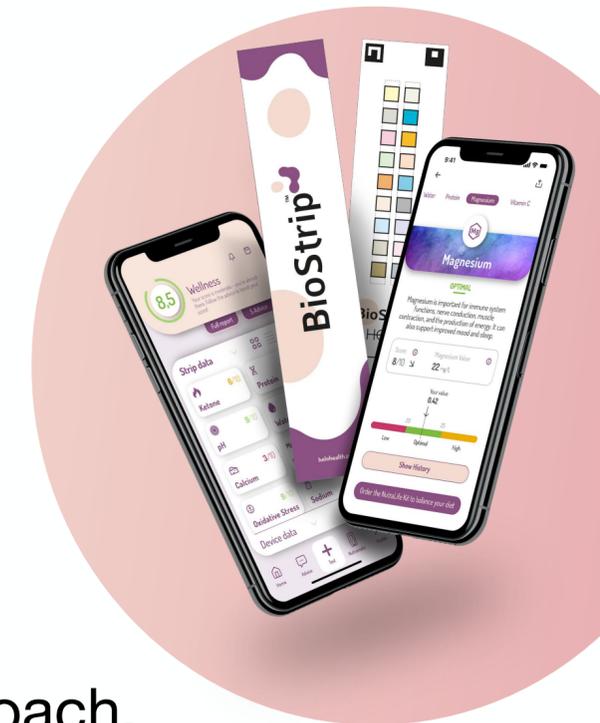

- The free NutraLife AI App is backed by a generative artificial intelligence based on machine learning.
- Create a free account and provide information about your habits, your body, and your wellness goals.
- Once your BioStrip test is complete, simply upload a photo of it for analysis by our AI through the App.
- In seconds, our generative AI processes all your data and provides you with real-time insights of what's happening in your body.
- You'll know if your measurements are high, low, or just right!
- You can also connect your wearable device to the App to share more data for an even more comprehensive analysis.

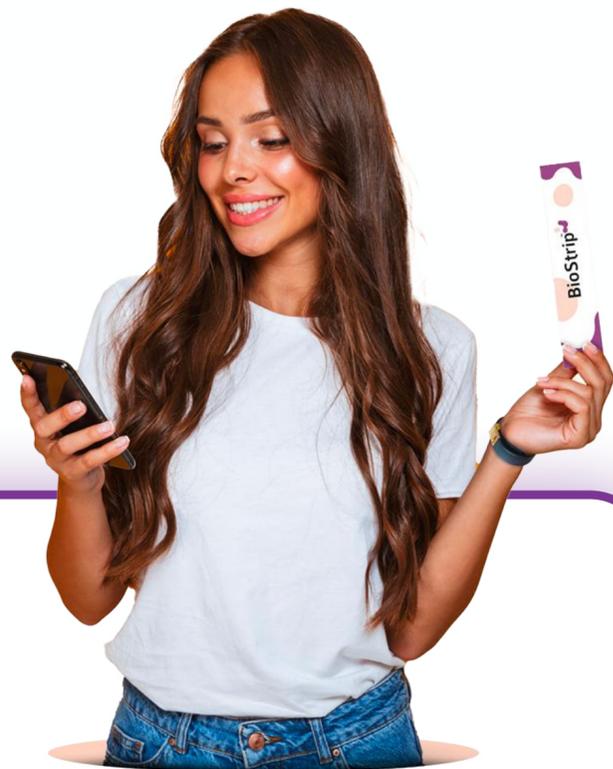

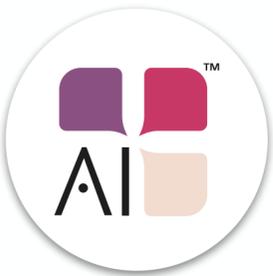

Personalized Advice, Week After Week

- The NutraLife AI App is also your personalized coach.
- Every time you submit a new test, NutraLife AI gives you personal recommendations, like where to adjust your diet, how to increase your water intake, ways to snack better, and more.
- With consistent, regular testing, NutraLife AI establishes a powerful feedback loop, offering timely and personalized direction based on what your biodata is reporting, right now.
- This timely feedback from NutraLife AI puts you in control of your wellness.

NutraLife AI is just getting started!

We're developing even more ways our generative AI can guide your progress and give you even more useful and timely advice.

Embrace a life of real-time, personalized wellness feedback and support, powered by your data and NutraLife AI.
